Summer Program 2005

Discover M.I. July 25-August 5

Monday, July 25

Intra-personal Intelligence part ONE— We begin our week with an introduction to the Multiple Intelligences, taking an inventory of and graphing our collective strengths. This morning is also a time to get to know each other and the neighbourhood that is our home base for the next two weeks. After lunch, we'll begin working on a piece of personal, wearable art.

Tuesday, July 26

Visual Spatial Intelligence— We'll start the day by exploring the primary colours and how they combine to create the palette of an artist. Then it's off to the University of Toronto, where we'll enjoy the shapes and designs of some great architecture. A visit to Hart House will round out our day, with a stop by the Great Hall, and an exploration of a sampling of the fine Art this great cultural institution has to offer. Upon returning home, we will begin making some advertisements for our big sale next week.

Wednesday, July 27

Bodily-Kinaesthetic Intelligence—Today we'll explore the ways in which our bodies move, as we discover our Bodily-Kinaesthetic intelligence. We'll spend the morning playing movement games, and creating plasticine sculptures with our hands. We'll also take a brisk walk around the neighbourhood to post our yard sale sign for next week. Then, after lunch, we head out to the Doug Snow Aquatic Centre for an afternoon of swimming fun! Campers: Remember your bathing suits today!

Thursday, July 28

Naturalist Intelligence— This morning we find ourselves along the lake as we explore the Humber Bay Butterfly Habitat. Then it's off to the ROM to examine the many creatures hiding within the Biodiversity Gallery.

Friday, July 29

Inter-Personal—Are you out-going, an extrovert, a big talker? If so, you may consider a career in politics or hospitality! This morning, we visit the offices of Liberal MPP Laurel Broten to check out the inter-personal intelligence of a politician. Then it's off to a local Indian restaurant for lunch and an observation of interpersonal skills in the life of a successful local businessman.

Monday, August 1

HOLIDAY—NO CAMP ON THIS DAY—SEE YOU TOMORROW!

Tuesday, August 2

Mathematical-Logical Intelligence— BIG Business! Bring your old toys and household “junk” that Mom and Dad don’t want/need... we’re having a yard sale! Hope your math is good, because we’ll need to price our products and make change for our customers! Proceeds to be divided between the campers and a charity of their choice. In the afternoon, we’ll play some mind games and meet another interesting person who uses his Logical-Mathematical skills and one other dominant intelligence to do his job effectively.

Wednesday, August 3

Musical-Rhythmical Intelligence— Today we’ll explore the world of music and rhythm as we head out to explore Soul Drums, a world percussion retail/resource centre in North York. Then it’s back to home base for lunch and an afternoon of song and music-making with special guitar guest, Vinx.

Thursday, August 4

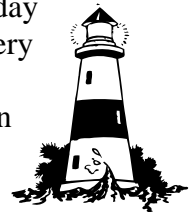

Linguistic Intelligence and Intra-Personal Part TWO—We’ll spend the morning at the library today, and choose a favourite book to read in a quiet corner as we investigate the facets of linguistic intelligence and revisit our intra-personal smarts. We’ll use our creative writing skills to write some personal poetry. Today we’ll also explore the world of scrapbooking as we create a layout of photos about ourselves. Campers should bring 4-5 photos of themselves today which they will crop and paste onto a special acid-free mat for hanging

Friday, August 5

Island Adventure—The Toronto Islands await us on our last day of camp. See the city from a different angle, discover the mystery of the haunted lighthouse, and build a sand castle by the lake. Bring your sunscreen and prepare for a day of island exploration as we embark on our final field trip of the session.

*Please remember to wear sunscreen and a hat each day of camp!
Activities and trips are subject to change at the instructor’s discretion based on camper interest or other factors.*
